Edmund Fitzgerald Exhibit

Of the 6000 ships lost on the Great Lakes, the Edmund Fitzgerald remains the most famous and mysterious.

The Fitzgerald lies twisted and broken just 17-miles from Whitefish Point, at a depth of 535 feet.

In the summer of 1995, the Great Lakes Shipwreck Historical Society together with families of the Fitzgerald’s crew, Canadian Navy and the National Geographic Society raised the bell to honor the 29 men lost on November 10, 1975.

Today the ship’s bell can be seen in the Shipwreck Museum gallery. It serves not only as a tribute to the Fitzgerald’s crew, but as a reminder of the 30,000 men, women and children lost to shipwreck on the Great Lakes.

Superior’s fury. Deceivingly beautiful Lake Superior’s unrelenting fury has earned the reputation of being the most treacherous of the Great Lakes.

Throughout the museum complex, visitors will see maritime legends come to life. Artifacts and exhibits tell stories of sailors and ships who braved the waters of Superior and those who were lost to its menacing waves. Constructed in 1861 at the order of President Lincoln, exhibits reflect the life of the lightkeeper and his family at the turn of the century, circa 1890-1920.

Whitefish Point is the oldest active light on Lake Superior. The Keepers Quarters Dwelling attached to the light has been fully restored and is open for tours. The finest maritime gift store in Michigan offering many exclusive lighthouse gifts, art, Great Lakes and maritime history books and video, top quality apparel and a full inventory of specialty nautical items are available in the store, through mail order and our online catalog. Toll free 888-492-3747.
